

The Elizabeth

The natural allure of engineered stone baths and basins

DETAIL OF MOLOKO BATH TUB

Dado is very proud to introduce the Elizabeth. Manufactured in DADOquartz engineered stone to impart a natural stone character, this Art Deco bathtub makes a clear statement of distinction. The free-standing bathtub will give definite elegance to your bathroom. As an option, a console with solid aluminium legs and a bench-mounted basin complete the suite. Products are available in Pearl White or Sandstone.

DADOquartz combines the advantages of granite and polymer products. It is an engineered stone created by combining crushed quartz with resin and pigments producing a void-free material. The products with properties similar to well-known engineered quartz kitchen surfaces are manufactured using state-of-the-art technology. Because the material is uniform, DADOquartz has no fissures, veins or other imperfections that could compromise strength or appearance. DADOquartz has a natural appearance and subtle depth of colour. It is stronger, more durable, cleaner, safer and more consistent than natural stone. It is when DADOquartz is used to manufacture bathroomware that it becomes uniquely appealing.

Dado has manufactured stone products since 1998 and is one of only a few companies worldwide manufacturing engineered quartz baths. The DADOquartz bathroomware range was introduced to the market during 2006 at the Cersaie show in Italy. Dado Australia entered the local market early in 2008, but its products are not new to the rest of the world. The Dado group already supplies quality baths and basins to design houses in Italy, Netherlands, United Kingdom and South Africa.

Considered "the new granite", quartz bathroomware is scratch-, heat-, mildew- and mould-resistant, easy to clean and boasts a stylish matt finish that is silky-smooth to touch. DADOquartz retains the water temperature for the long and relaxing bath you deserve. This is a product that you must simply experience if you need to combine style, durability and a soft, natural look.
